Campania Wine Region of Italy

Campania coast line is on the Tyrrhenian Sea with famous gulfs (Naples, Salerno and Policastro) as well as three islands (Capri, Ischia and Procida). Four other regions border Campania; Lazio to the northwest, Molise to the north, Apulia (Puglia) to the northeast and Basilicata to the east.

The climate is typically Mediterranean along the coast, whereas in the inner zones it is more continental, with low temperatures in winter.

The ancient red varieties Aglianico and Piediroso (“red feet”) and the white Falaghina, Greco, and Fiano comprise a majority of the Campanian DOC wines. The tannic, high-acid Aglianico shares a structural similarity with Sangiovese and Nebbiolo—although it displays a darker fruit profile—and has the capacity to produce the longest-lived and noblest red wines of Southern Italy.

Falaghina provides an aromatic lift to the white wines of Vesuvio DOC, produced on the slopes of Mount Vesuvius just south of Campi Flegrei and Naples. Vesuvio, which may be white, rosato, red, sparkling, or fortified in style, may be labeled as Lacryma Christi del Vesuvio if it achieves a minimum 12% alcohol.
